Summary

In early 2019, Seychelles Ministry of Education and Renaissance met to discuss the literacy needs of pupils who are learning English as an additional language. The key objective was to improve attainment in English language, while also supporting schools in developing a culture of reading in both schools and homes. This required an increase in provision of engaging, appropriately levelled books, along with the means to build pupils’ enthusiasm for reading, overcoming the increasing draw of modern technology – a challenge shared by schools around the world.

Renaissance recommended a programme focused on personalised reading practice for all students, with a strong emphasis on building reading comprehension. The key component of this programme was myON by Renaissance, an online learning platform containing over 8,000 authentic books written in English, with audio narration and other integrated scaffolding tools. The programme matches pupils with exciting, modern books which align to their chronological age, reading ability and interests. These are available to read 24/7 online and offline. Teachers have access to thousands of non-fiction texts to augment their teaching in all subjects, providing further opportunities for students to develop a broad range of vocabulary.

In addition, the online platform works alongside, rather than in competition with, students’ interest in technology.

The Ministry of Education and Renaissance agreed that a small-scale trial of the programme was required to assess the reception and scope of such a programme. This was offered free of charge from Renaissance.

myON Implementation

The Ministry of Education chose to focus on two year groups, P2 and P4, within five schools which were carefully selected based on their geographical locations, size, and academic history to be representative of the wider population. The trial ran for 9 weeks, between May and July 2019. Participating teachers were provided with training and support from Renaissance in the form of a 1.5-day workshop and remote support throughout the trial. Meanwhile, the Ministry of Education engaged with participating schools in-person through meetings, guided by regular updates from Renaissance.

Following the launch of the programme, Renaissance monitored implementation within schools, focusing on the amount of reading taking place and on pupils’ comprehension of their books. These figures were shared with the Ministry of Education, and schools were updated on their individual school data during weekly email updates.

A huge quantity of reading was achieved across all schools in the trial. A total of 5,143 books were completed, with an additional 3,177 books being partially read. This resulted in 55,823 minutes of reading time across the schools throughout the two-month trial.

In December 2019, Seychelles Ministry of Education made the decision to implement Renaissance's reading solution to all 25 primary schools over 3 years, launching in Spring 2020.
Impact

Renaissance launched myON across all primary schools in February 2020. To help keep pupils reading during the pandemic, a free-to-use myON site was offered to all secondary schools until the end of 2020. Primary pupils spent over 400 hours reading 11,000 books on myON during Seychelles’ first wave of school closures. During 2020, pupils spent a total of 3,746 hours reading outside of school hours, meaning 59% of total reading time took place before 8AM, after 4PM, and during the weekends. During 2021, this increased to 5,970 hours of reading outside school hours, indicating that pupils have taken ownership of their reading journeys with many choosing to read for pleasure in their free time.

Renaissance delivered on-site and remote professional development to launch myON across primary schools. A whole country reading competition took place over the summer holidays to drive engagement and encourage pupils to read at home. During this time, teachers and librarians became empowered to lead their own initiatives around Renaissance’s reading solution. These educators became known as myON champions and have hosted networking sessions to share their experiences, knowledge and best practices.

As the project has moved forward, schools have embraced myON not only as a digital library, but also a classroom resource with many class teachers using the Library and Project features as a teaching tool for subject lessons including English, Science, and Maths.

The following quotes from pupils, parents, and school staff highlight the success of the project and the impact myON has had on creating a reading culture:

“I could not imagine a day without reading on myON. I read every day and seize every opportunity I get. What makes it more fun is the quizzes. It gives me a chance to evaluate how well I have read the book. I really get excited when the score pops up. I always try my very best to score more than 80% as this shows I have read with understanding.”
— P5 Pupil

“It’s really nice to hear the impact that Renaissance is having in Seychelles. I use myON with my pupils during English reading periods and plan to continue.”
— Teacher

Having access to myON and having built up the skills and knowledge around best practice has allowed school staff to create an environment where reading is championed, valued, and accessible to all.

Since myON was launched in 2020, pupils have spent over 1,000,000 minutes reading, with over 150,000 books completed. This is a great achievement for one of the world’s smallest countries.
